is your best friend. In fact the man who has plenty of it don't need many friends although he will always have more than he wants. This being the case would it not be well to take the best of care of it and place it where it will be safe and do the most good. Money is sometimes called the "silent partner." Thanksgiving day passed off quietly in Lacombe. Most of the young people spent the day skating on the lake near town, while the nimrods shouldered their guns and played havoc among the chicken and partridge.

On Sunday Morning next Rev. Mr. Locke will preach a sermon to the local Orange Lodge, who will attend the Methodist Church in a body. In the evening there will be a special Harvest Thanksgiving service.

D. W. Garner has purchased the Greenleaf property on Matthias St., and has rented the house to Mrs. Gideon, who will conduct an up-to-date boarding house and stopping place. Meals will be provided at all hours, and rates for transients will be $1.00 per day. Mr. Garner will operate the large feed barn on the property, and will make special rates to farmers putting up their teams. He guarantees the best satisfaction to horses left with him to feed.

A couple of Edmonton gentlemen, while out shooting near here on Thanksgiving Day had the misfortune to shoot one of John Fortune's team of crows. The gentleman who was driving was carrying his gun cocked in one hand and holding the lines in the other. When a chicken flew up he pulled the trigger instead of the lines, with the result that the horse received the full charge in the hip. When will people get onto the fact that it is dangerous to carry loaded firearms in a rig?

Music hath charms to soothe a savage, no doubt; but the Schubert Symphony Club and Lady Quartette are not travelling for the express purpose of soothing savages. They are entertaining the music-loving public, and in a manner that is thoroughly enjoyable from first to last. Their program is full of novelty and artistic elegance, besides giving our readers many opportunities to indulge in the world-famous American laugh. If you want to be happy on the evening of Nov. 8th, you can be by going to hear this company's entertainment at the Methodist Church.

"There is little danger from a cold or from an attack of the grip except when followed by pneumonia, and this never happens when Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is used. This remedy has won its great reputation and extensive sale by its remarkable cures of colds and grip, and can be relied upon with implicit confidence. For sale by dealers everywhere.

Lena Zandi Purcell, the famous contralto of the Schubert Lady Quartette, has one of the deepest voices ever given to a woman, and in the only lady vocalist able to sing an octave below middle C in concert. Her voice is very powerful and yet so melodious that her strongest tones lose none of its sweetness. Hear her in the Methodist church on Wednesday, Nov. 8th.

At the Anglican Church on Sunday, November 5th at 7 p.m. the special sermon subject will be "Leaves From the Life of Frances Ridley Havergal." Special music will be sung.

Hallowe'en Social
The Hallowe'en Social in the basement of the Presbyterian church last night, given by the Young People's Christian Endeavor, was a most entertaining affair and was much enjoyed by all who attended. The church was decorated with banners and Hallowe'en lanterns which were very appropriate to the occasion. A very good crowd was present to enjoy the music, both vocal and instrumental, and various other items of entertainment. The music was well rendered and much appreciated. A five-cent dip was introduced immediately after the musical part of the program and created an abundance of laughter and amusement. During the evening many refreshments were served which were heartily partaken of. A feature of the evening was the passing through purgatory, where a number of phantoms, which were disclosed, and which created much excitement and laughter and more especially to the ladies. The Rev. M. White, B.A., was chairman and conducted the entertainment throughout.

THANKSGIVING SOCIAL
The social held in the Methodist church on Monday evening for the "Egworth Leaguers" was well attended. The first item on the program was a sewing contest, in which no little skill was displayed by the young men present. A few of these found difficulty in getting the thread through the eye of the needle, however, little was lost, for after failure had marked their twice or three repeated efforts, one of the many ladies present would perform this trying task. An occasional cry of pain was heard when the needle, missing the cloth, would find its way in to the quivering flesh of an eager contestant, but not many were heard to thus cry out, and those who pulled the trigger instead of the lines, with the result that the horse received the full charge in the hip. When will people get onto the fact that it is dangerous to carry loaded firearms in a rig?

through the church where the lights had been turned out and the young men assembled. This event, however, was considerably changed by circumstances, and the young men, apparently startled by the appearance of the train of apparitions, immediately blew out their candles and turned on the electric lights, expecting, perhaps, that they would vanish. But, to their utter amazement, without avail. They therefore immediately decided to investigate, and removing the white shrouds, disclosed the familiar faces of a number of young ladies of the League.

AL CONSERVATIVE
The news from the by-elections in Calgary, Gleichen, Pincher Creek and Lethbridge, held yesterday, is to the effect that the Sifton Government candidates all went down to defeat by large majorities. The outcome of these elections will, no doubt, have a disastrous effect on the present government. The insurgents, under Cross, will doubtless make it so interesting for the Sifton Government. At the ensuing session the Sifton will be compelled to appeal to the country, in which event, if yesterday's by-elections indicate the feeling of the country, he will be overwhelmingly defeated. Cross will not have enough followers in the house to carry on the government, and will have little to hope for in an appeal to the country at the present time. The Conservatives are feeling elated over the prospects of an early election, as they figure they will have a cinch.

WRECK THIS MORNING
Word has been received in Lacombe that the express due here about 4:30 this morning was wrecked at the first siding south of Carstairs about two o'clock. A freight had taken the siding to let the express pass, and the switch was evidently left open. The express, travelling at a high rate, dashed head on into the freight, both trains being badly wrecked. Further than the information that some of the train men are missing, no news of the disaster can be procured. The wreck is badly torn up, and the railway officials say it will take eight hours to clear away the wreck and allow trains to pass.

DEATH OF W. W. LEWIS
After an illness of five weeks, W. W. Lewis, proprietor of the Lacombe Meat Market, died yesterday afternoon. While Mr. Lewis has been very low for some days his death was unexpected, and came as a severe shock to his many friends. Decease came to Lacombe early in the summer from New Jersey, and engaged in the butchery business, operating the Lacombe Meat Market, which he succeeded in working up to a thriving business. He was a shrewd business man and had many friends among our citizens. He leaves to mourn the loss of a devoted husband and father, a wife and three small children, the eldest being about five years of age. The funeral will take place from the Church of England at 2:00 p.m.

SENT UP FOR TRIAL
Lien and Nieme, the two photographers, arrested in connection with the explosion at the C. P. R. depot here on the 12th inst., were committed for trial by the magistrate at the conclusion of the preliminary held here yesterday. They were charged with manslaughter, causing previous bodily harm, and two breaches of the Railway Act. They will have to answer to the four charges at the assizes to be held here next month. The evidence was practically the same as brought forward at the Coroner's inquest, the only additional evidence being with reference to the very dangerous nature of the chemicals they had in their trunk.

BOARD OF TRADE
A meeting of the Board of Trade was held on Wednesday evening last. The item of importance to be considered was the account for the entertainment of the British Editors some time ago. The account was in the neighborhood of $100 and was divided $35 for each of the three members of the Board of Trade, only a few members of which were honored with an invitation to the affair, quite properly turned down the account, leaving the payment to those who had been fortunate enough to be there.

DIRECT LEGISLATION IN CALIFORNIA

The State of California has decided by an overwhelming majority to adopt the Initiative, Referendum and Recall as part of its constitution. Complete returns of the voting are not yet published, but the figures announced up to date, reveal a vote in two-thirds of the precincts, show that the Initiative and Referendum received 138,181 votes, with only 44,850 against, while the Recall, which includes the Legislature as well as members of the Legislature and public officials, was endorsed by 145,572 votes to 46,290 in the precincts reported. Several of the leading cities of California already have the Initiative and Referendum in municipal government, so that the adoption of the reform by the people of California is the result of their own experience as well as that of their neighbors. Other States which are governed through District Legislation are Oregon, Colorado, Maine, Missouri, South Dakota, Utah, Nevada, Montana, Arkansas and Omaha, while Illinois, where the people were only permitted by the Legislature to give an advisory vote, has pronounced in favor of the principle, though the Legislature has not yet adopted the advice of the people. Thus the people of the United States are generally taking into their own hands the powers of government. Each new State which adopts Direct Legislation provides an additional example of the practical success of the reform, and no State which has once adopted it, the people shall rule has shown any disposition to return to the old system of rule by politicians, which usually means rule by a few party bosses.

BY-ELECTIONS IN P. E. I.

Provincial elections will take place in Prince Edward Island on November 15th in two districts, Belfast and Fort Augustus. At the present time the parties in the legislature stand fourteen to fourteen. The two vacancies have been represented by Liberals. For several months Premier Palmer's seat has been vacant, he having accepted the attorney-generalship after the former premier, F. L. Hazzard was appointed to the Supreme Court. Premier Palmer will run for Fort Augustus against Dr. Ross, who has been elected in the district as Fred Nash, Liberal, and W. McPhail, Conservative. Should the seats go each in the by-election the government would then stand with the speaker in the chair, fifteen Conservatives to fourteen Liberals. The Government is Liberal.

GOOD ROADS

An important step towards the improvement of existing roads in Western Canada will be taken on November 3 and 4, when meetings of all interested in this movement will be held in New Westminster, B.C. The meetings are called by Mayor John A. Lee, and will be attended by a large number of the Westminster Automobile Club, the Vancouver Auto Club, the Victoria Auto Club, the Seattle Automobile Club and other automobile associations. The Pacific Highway Association will be represented at the meetings by a strong delegation including prominent San Francisco, Portland, Tacoma, Seattle, Bellingham and Spokane. These men will come prepared to urge the extension of the Pacific Highway, which now stretches from Vancouver, B.C. to Tijuana, Mexico, a distance of 2,069 miles. The scheme favored by the Highway enthusiasts is the building of the Pacific Highway through British Columbia, via Hazelton, and on to the Yukon. The extension of the Canadian Highway with the object of eventually making it a good road from the Atlantic to the Pacific will also command much of the sentiment of the meeting. The speakers, asking the Federal Government to assist in the scheme will be introduced during the convention.

Other matters to be discussed include the placing of signs and mile posts along all travelled roads, the standardizing of legislation regarding the speed of automobiles and the rules of the road, and the planning of a campaign in favor of better roads.

The Province of British Columbia has always been wide awake to the advantages derived from the provision of good roads and the importance of taking place at New Westminster on November 3 and 4 will undoubtedly do a great deal to ward furthering the campaign in that province. One of the chief items that will be discussed at the meeting will be the possibility of constructing a highway throughout Canada from the Pacific to the Atlantic coast, and while this project time seems practically impossible without circling at some point into the States between Winnipeg and the eastern provinces, there is still every thing in the scheme to recommend it to the prairie provinces and it is to be hoped that when they are called upon to put forward the good work, they will not be backward in putting their shoulders to the wheel and take the work at the border of British Columbia and carry it across the great prairies to Winnipeg.

Cost of Bad Roads
Texas annually pays $8,000,000 because of bad roads. In Shreveport, La., the other day a gathering of good roads enthusiasts, in which many Texans participated. One of these was Secretary T. Ellison of the Longview Chamber of Commerce, who, in the course of the address, said that the road from Shreveport to Dallas, gave these interesting facts:

"The Texas farmers last year marketed approximately 8,000,000 tons of products. It cost 43 cents a ton a mile to reach a market in Texas, and the average distance hauled was five miles. The government average is only 23 cents. Now let's figure in dollars the loss at the farm gate. If the Texas farmer raised 8,000,000 tons of farm products and it cost him 43 cents a ton a mile to reach a market, and the average distance hauled was five miles, and it cost only 23 cents a ton a mile on an average throughout the United States, then the Texas farmers did lose 20 cents a ton a mile on 8,000,000 tons of products on every mile hauled his goods on the total loss on one mile must be $1,600,000, but the average haul was five miles so it must be five times that amount, which would be $8,000,000 annually that the farmers of Texas lose on account of bad roads."

Incidentally attention was also called to the fact that the total fire losses in the State of Texas last year reached $4,000,000, and the losses from bad roads reached more than twice that sum. Mr. Ellison concluded with this effective argument: "The federal government has spent more than $1,000,000 trying to find a way of eradicating the boll weevil, but we do not have to spend money to find how to eradicate bad roads—build good ones."

New Road Material
Interesting experiments are being made on behalf of the Board of Engineers, London, Eng., with a view to deciding upon the most suitable compound for making road surfaces. Colonel R. E. Crompton, C.B., consulting engineer to the board recently discussed the results already obtained. "The old method of 'water-binding' a road, which dates from macadam, is completely useless, he said, 'as it crumbles and breaks up in a very short time. Consequently I have been trying to invent a material which shall be elastic and water-proof and durable. This is an example of the best I have done as regards town surfaces, and he showed a black, oblong block of substance resembling rubber. "You see," he explained, "it is quite resilient and it has successfully withstood all our tests for breaking and denting. It will stand 83 degrees which will be perfectly silent, and it ought to wear well."

"For country roads I have evolved a somewhat similar compound, only rougher and more like asphalt in appearance. It will stand 100 degrees, and our aim to produce something which will be as good for 50c a yard. For laying it down I have a scheme whereby a machine spreads it out on the road, and the wheel of a roller, rather like a paper making machine, rolls over it, and the chime. "All these new methods—tarring, binding with bitumen and pitch—are generally supposed to be expensive, but I maintain that they should not be. We shall experiment with the various compounds I have made, and see which stands the actual conditions of traffic best."

Plan Road Campaign
That California, the greatest State of the Pacific Coast, whose enormous area and elongated shape seem to adapt it to the extension of north-south highways especially, fully realizes this fact, is shown by the activity of its many good roads organizations in planning for a wise expenditure of the liberal sum granted by the legislature for the construction and maintenance of state highways. Golden State publications are one and all displaying great interest in the matter, and many excellent suggestions have been made in their columns.

Says Earl Snell, the capable automobile editor of the San Francisco News Letter: "The Pacific Highway Association has taken, in a most aggressive manner, the initiative on all matters pertaining to good roads on the Pacific coast, and since its organization in September 1910, has accomplished a great deal of good along the lines of improving and laying out highways. It is, in fact, working up to the importance of this work, and the Good Roads clubs formed throughout the state in the past few months are now active in the matter of securing, for their particular committees, their share of the money to be expended by this state for new highways."

In connection with the subject of better highways for California, Mr. Snell makes a wise suggestion for beautifying and protecting road surfaces in sections where the summer sun tends to soften them. "You who have motored, welcome and seek, no doubt," he says, "the highways and byways which are sheltered by the redwoods, oak, pine, eucalyptus, and other trees, for it is over these roads that one will find comfort from the hot summer sun."

"At but very little expense there can be planted on both sides of the boulevards avenues of trees. In time these trees will be of sufficient size not only to beautify the roads but to preserve them. The sun's rays would be taken up and the surface kept cool and hard, making possible the most ideal of traveling conditions."

LAVESTA
Mr. Thorburn, of the C.P.R. land office, Calgary, made inspection of land around here. Arthur Watts has returned to his home for the winter. Ian Macdonald and wife have taken up residence on their place. Messrs. Hewitt, Campbell and Nicholson have completed most residences. Ian Macdonald and wife have returned from an enjoyable trip to the Pacific Coast. Postal notes can now be purchased at Lavesta post office. Steady increase of store business is reported. Four visitors from Montana, accompanied by Mr. Triplet were looking for homesteads this week. Fred Nelles and Glen Marshall bought a quantity of cattle in this district. Mr. Wise, from Camrose, visited his sister, Mrs. Bachor. Successful rabbit hunting is being enjoyed by the sports here.

LEIN & NEINE HELD FOR EXPLOSION

The adjourned inquest into the death of Everett G. McLeod who was killed in the explosion of a trunk which wrecked the C.P.R. depot here on the evening of October 12th, was held Friday. It was conducted by Dr. E. M. Sharpe, coroner. The verdict of the jury was as follows: "That Everett G. McLeod came to his death from injuries received in the explosion of a trunk in the baggage room of the C.P.R. depot at Lacombe on the evening of October 12th, and from the evidence adduced it is the opinion of this jury that the trunk, the explosion of which caused the death of Everett G. McLeod, was checked over by the C.P.R. from Red Deer to Lacombe by Harry Leonard Neine and Henry Leine."

Arthur E. People appeared at the inquest in the interests of the two men held in connection with the fatal explosion, and John W. Huggill of Calgary, was present as the representative of the Canadian Pacific Railway Company, while A. H. Russell, of Red Deer, was Crown prosecutor.

The evidence adduced at the inquest, which opened at 10 o'clock this morning and continued until 5 o'clock this afternoon, brought out the fact that the trunk which exploded and which, besides fatally injuring McLeod, and severely injuring George Rickford, another baggage room attendant, completely wrecked the C.P.R. depot, contained very high explosives in the nature of chemicals used for flashlight photography. The two men who will be charged with manslaughter are travelling photographers, who were employed by A. N. Avelon, photographer of Calgary. They left Calgary on October 11th, having purchased tickets for Edmonton. They stopped first at Didsbury on their way north and also at Red Deer, having checked and checked the trunk at these places.

It was stated in evidence that explosive of any character are not permitted to be carried on passenger trains, and a recent decision of the board of railway commissioners of Canada that material used for flashlight photography are high and dangerous explosives, and may be shipped only in properly constructed receptacles and only by freight.

One of the witnesses was George Rickford, the second baggage man, who was with McLeod when the trunk which caused the latter's death was handled in the baggage room after being taken from the train on October 12, has been in the hospital under medical care since the accident until today.

REDISTRIBUTION IN A YEAR

It is practically settled by the government that the union of parliament called for November 15, will be an extra session confined almost exclusively to the passing of supplies for the balance of the current fiscal year.

A prorogation will, it is hoped, be reached before Christmas. Parliament will be summoned again late in February or early in March to pass supplies for the coming fiscal year and deal with the first installment of the government's legislative programme including the proposals for the tariff commission of the western division of the federal railway commission and operation of terminal elevators.

The restriction bill and navy question were shelved until the following session beginning a year hence. The cause for the delay in regard to announcing a naval policy will be that time is desired for the further conference next summer with the British admiralty as to the best way in which Canada can co-operate with Britain in the naval defence of the empire.

TAXATION OF LAND VALUES ONLY EQUITABLE SYSTEM

The following paper was read at the meeting of the Union Municipalities, at Lacombe, by Messrs. Wallace of Calgary.

To the members of the Union of Municipalities:

In opening permit me to disclaim all responsibility for the selection of the title of the subject, it was thrust on me at the last moment. At the same time I wish to express my appreciation of the honor conferred upon me in coupling my name with a subject that is of vast importance to all municipalities, and more especially to a new and rapidly growing country.

Unless the taxing of lands, buildings and personal property is done in the most equitable manner possible the municipality does not receive the proper amount of equitable amount from any person taxable.

Under the present charter of the city of Calgary all lands and buildings erected or affixed to the land and all machinery or other things so affixed to any building so as to form part of the realty are assessed at their true and actual value; and all personal property at two-thirds of the average stock carried. Regarding the taxation on land and buildings I consider it would be a great factor to the growing towns in the West if taxation were removed from all buildings, thereby encouraging a more substantial class of buildings to be erected.

Why should you or I be called upon to pay so much more for erecting a building on the lot we own than the neighbor who sits back and gains an unearned increment by our energy in upbuilding and beautifying the city, which is the whole aim of all municipalities in a new country, and more especially in the West.

Regarding personal property, if the municipalities see fit to keep the same system in vogue, I consider the mode of taxation on personal property should be on a rental basis, which, I say, if a man is able to rent he is, therefore, in a position to pay taxes accordingly, which, I believe to be more equitable than at present. For instance, two firms occupying similar stores and paying the same rental: A carries only a few hundred dollars of stock; while B through necessity requires to carry a large stock but yet only does the same amount of business as A. A is only taxed on a trivial amount while B is penalized by having to pay under our present system on the large amount of stock carried. By adopting rental as a system of taxation, if personal property required to be assessed, it would make each firm liable to the same amount.

Reverting back to the question of taxation on land alone: Some maintain that it does not relieve the assessment of any work by doing away with taxation on buildings, but I fail to see the point. An army of officials would be required to find out the exact value of buildings, whereas the assessor can concentrate his whole thought and study to the increased value of land, which is taking place in every municipality in the West. Tax collecting would therefore become more simple and easy, and house building and houses better and more plentiful. An easier appraisal would make discrimination difficult; temptation to discriminate, consciously or unconsciously, would, therefore, be reduced, or perhaps, vanish if the latter alone were to be appraised; and along with this there would be the tactical advantage that land speculation, the business of getting something for nothing would be discouraged.

Persons have complained that the assessment had been increased on their buildings because they had painted their houses; therefore it is plain that a tax on improvements is virtually a fine and punishment for making improvements.

ROADS AND ROAD MAKING

Two neighbors called on me today, when our conversation soon turned to roads and road making. As every farmer is interested in the subject (or should be) I should be glad to take a little space in the paper in which to express a few views. I think that if the councils, instead of beginning with the high land, which forms the third and upwards of the roads required, they would find much more satisfaction in their work and things generally would go more cheerfully. Then, if two-thirds of a prairie be plowed, why not do that in the first year a council is formed in the following fashion. Get, say, two or more 16 or 18 inch plows suitable for the district. (Buy nothing more). Then start to plow the centre of the road, throwing soda toward centre. This will give the crown which every good road should have. About three or four furrows on each side will give a width of from seven to nine feet, enough to take a wagon and a little to spare. The furrows will drain the center when it rains, which will prevent mud places from forming. Sodas will be removed and all growth prevented.

The cost of ordinary prairie breaking runs from four to five dollars per acre. A mile of this road would cost about the same. In order to make a good job, a presser or roller, two used, and upwards should be used. This roller should either be done in the most equitable manner possible the municipality does not receive the proper amount of equitable amount from any person taxable. Under the present charter of the city of Calgary all lands and buildings erected or affixed to the land and all machinery or other things so affixed to any building so as to form part of the realty are assessed at their true and actual value; and all personal property at two-thirds of the average stock carried. Regarding the taxation on land and buildings I consider it would be a great factor to the growing towns in the West if taxation were removed from all buildings, thereby encouraging a more substantial class of buildings to be erected. Undoubtedly road making should be done in the spring. Then the ratepayer has the use of it during the summer, the time when he needs it most. In the fall and winter it is a solid highway. Where to begin road making and how much to do begins at a centre and work out. Do a proportionate quantity according as place is settled up. Certainly every other road should be laid out in two years in any line as a settled-up district. In case of forming new council, I believe that money can be obtained at banks. In this way the ratepayer can have six months use of his road before he has to pay for it, if the work is done in the spring.

WHICH COLLEGE COURSE FOR THE BOY

There are among educators certain more or less fixed ideas regarding college courses and their value as preparatory to the various professional schools. The classics and philosophy are supposed to form an excellent foundation for divinity. The prospective student of medicine is usually advised to study natural science in college as a preparation for his work in medicine. As a general thing the future lawyer studies more classics, much more history, government and economics, and far less natural science than the student who will some day be a physician. The proposition that as a preparation for the study of law of medicine it makes little difference what subject is mainly pursued in college would probably meet with disapproval from educators and laymen alike.

Some of our current education theories, however, have been arrived at rather by deduction from hypotheses than by the experimental methods of induction. A study of the statistics of Harvard College and Harvard Law and Medical schools was recently undertaken by Professor A. Lawrence Lowell, of Harvard, and the conclusions are printed in the number of the Educational Review. The chief result of the enquiry seems to be that what makes the greatest difference in the achievements of the students in these professional schools is not what subject is mainly studied in college, but with what intensity the subject studied is pursued.

In the first place a comparison of the records of work done in the law school by (1) men who took six or more courses in one of four groups of studies, (2) literature and language, (3) natural science, (4) history and political science, and (5) mathematics and philosophy, and did not win the cum laude distinction on the law school; and (2) men who took six or more courses in the law school, gives no marked indication that any one subject is better preparation for the study of law than another, save the single case of mathematics.

Next the figures of the medical school exhibit similar results. Contrary to current opinion, it would appear that natural science in college is not a markedly better preparation for the study of medicine than other subjects. It is well known that the medical student who has some idea of natural science and of the use of tools in experiment has an initial advantage and it is easier to teach at the outset. Figures covering sixteen years show that excellence in the first year's course in anatomy and histology was in proportion to the amount of biology studied in college. But it is also clear that at the end of the course men who have devoted themselves to other subjects had as large a proportion of degrees cum laude as those who had pursued natural science. An exclusive pursuit of natural science is not always a conspicuous benefit as a preparation for medical education, and a man who has neglected that field is not necessarily at a disadvantage.

When we return, however, from the subject of subject to that of proficiency shown in the new results appear. When we compare the records of the students in the law school, whose work in college was of a high order with those of men who graduated from college with the plain degree we find this: The higher men's rank in college, the better their chance of winning a degree cum laude in the law school. About six per cent of the plain degree college men, 22 of those who graduated from college with distinction, and 60 per cent of graduates of highest distinction achieved such rank in the law school. The figures for the medical school tell the same story.

A further test is necessary in order to decide whether success in the study of medicine is due to work done by the student or to natural qualities which lead to high rank in both places. At least two-thirds of the boys entering Harvard college are prepared in a small number of preparatory schools that undertake regularly to fit for college. Under the circumstances, it is reasonable to suppose that the passing of these examinations is a good rough test of the scholarly qualities of the candidates. It is found that of the men who enter college clear of "conditions" 24 per cent won distinction in the law school, whereas of those who entered college with conditions only 9 per cent won such distinction; while 31 per cent of men who graduated from college with distinction, and only about 6 per cent of those who graduated without distinction, made a high record in the school. Natural aptitude, therefore, as shown by college entrance examinations, and hard work in college, as shown by college rank, are substantial factors in attaining a high grade in the law school. Here again the medical school has the same story to tell.

A general result of the enquiry seems to be that familiarity with subject matter, but of small importance in college education as compared with the mental processes that are capable of being transferred widely, or with the normal qualities involved in intensity of application which can be transferred indefinitely. A special result is that mathematics, though rarely selected for the purpose, is an excellent preparation for law. A practical deduction is that in all general as distinct from vocational education it is easy to lay too much stress upon the subject, and not enough upon thorough-going methods and intense application.

BENTLEY, ALBERTA
Sub-branch to Lacombe
EDWARD J. QUINN, Manager

Weather at present is favoring threshing operations and every outfit in the Valley are rushing things with plenty of work ahead of them.

The new addition to B. E. Williams' general store is nearing completion, and with Mr. Meredith on the job, it is sure to be done right and a credit to Bentley.

Mrs. Weller is arranging to build a dwelling on her lot in the McPherson addition this fall.

The Bjornsen blacksmith shop is completed and the outfit is expected in this week, when it will open for business. Carl Bjornsen is a first-class blacksmith and well known here and will, no doubt, become a prominent resident of Bentley.

W. G. Evans is making inquiries about Bentley lots. We are at a loss to know if he intends to buy or is just after getting his name in the paper.

We forgot to mention that James McPherson installed a new Taylor safe in his office some two weeks ago.

The special edition of the Western Globe is out, and we are glad to say is a credit to our district. We hope they will serve the purpose and reach many interested persons.

H. A. Brownlow has just made a sale of four more lots at his sub-division at Brownlow's Landing, the transfers being made out by the conveyancer, Mr. J. P. McPherson.

expect to have it out again in the afternoon.

The McPherson Bros. Lumber Co. have a car of lumber, shingles and lath just in at Lacombe, and will now have a good stock in these lines.

There are a lot of granary and other buildings being erected by the farmers here this fall, and the Bentley Lumber Yards look like someone's back yard with a few boards scattered around. However, Jamie says, "If you don't see what you want just ask for it."

The Thanksgiving service held at the Methodist church last Sunday evening was a pretty arranged affair, and the program was well rendered.

A harvest Thanksgiving service will be held in the Church of England on Sunday morning Nov. 5th, at 11 o'clock. Come. All are welcome.

Mr. E. Osgood and family wish to express their heartfelt thanks to their many friends and neighbors who so kindly assisted and offered their sympathy in their recent bereavement.

RIMBEY

Mr. and Mrs. Jim McDonald returned home last Monday after spending a month at Vancouver, B.C., and at different points in the States.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. E. Bowker spent Thanksgiving in Lacombe.

A box supper will be held at the Potter Creek school house on the evening of the tenth. A nice program is being prepared for the occasion. The proceeds will be used to purchase an organ for use in the church services which are held there. As the people of Potter Creek have always assisted the people of Rimby in their public entertainments, now let Rimby return the compliment by assisting them.

Mr. Gaywood has returned to Rimby after spending the summer at different points in the States. A son returned with him and they are now stopping at Mr. Mickey's where Mr. Gaywood is reported to be very ill.

Frank Osborn, of Strathmore arrived last Saturday and will spend some time in this vicinity.

Miss Lena Anderson returned home last Saturday after a sojourn of several weeks at the home of Mrs. Degroff, Bentley.

Mr. Vexell and family, of N. Dakota arrived last Monday. They are stopping with the family of Fred Schrader, but expect to locate soon.

Mrs. Prosser and Mrs. H. Browne attended the Lohman sale south of Lockhart this last week.

Miss Hellis, who has spent the past three weeks with her brother S. H., returned to her home at Calgary last Monday.

WOOD ORCHESTRA TRIO

The above company will appear in the opera house on Saturday evening next.

"The Wood Orchestra Trio is easily the most popular musical combination that has ever delighted the people of this congregation. This remarkable family of girls possesses extraordinary talent. To charm of person they add ability to entertain and enthrall an audience."

Miss Heather Wood has long been recognized as a remarkable girl virtuoso, and has studied under several of the best masters. Miss Margaret Wood, a child, won first prize for the piano at the great Welsh contests, and now is more than fulfilling the promise of her youth. Miss Lois Wood is without exception the finest cellist I have ever heard.

THE MIDLAND CONCERT CO.

A full house greeted the Midland Concert Co. at the Concert on Saturday night, and everyone went away satisfied that they had received their money's worth of good music. This is the first of a series of five or six entertainments arranged by Manager Shilleto, and if they are all up to the high standard of the Midlanders, there are four treasures in store for Lacombe's string players. Mr. Shilleto is selling tickets covering the series at greatly reduced rates, the five shows costing an average of 60 cents each. The next of the series is the Woods Orchestra Trio, which appears here on Saturday, Nov. 4th.

A COMING TREAT

Too much praise cannot be given the Ladies' Aid for organizing the Schubert Symphony Club and Lady Quartette of Chicago to appear here on Nov. 8th at the Methodist church. This company is in its 20th year of success, and is acknowledged everywhere to be the most "up-to-date" Musical Company travelling. Everybody likes music and everybody likes a hearty laugh. A delightful blending of pure fun and fine music is one reason why the above company has won its way to the top notch of public esteem. Seats on sale at McDonald's Drug store.

THANKSGIVING SERVICE

There were good audiences at the Thanksgiving services in the Presbyterian Church on Sunday, the church in the evening being well filled. The pastor, Rev. M. White, B.A., spoke in the morning from the 100th Psalm, "Enter into His Gates With Thanksgiving, and into His Courts With Praise," and in the evening from "The Lord's Prayer, 'Give us this day our Daily Bread.'" The musical part of the services, under the leadership of Mrs. J. I. Poole, was much enjoyed. In the evening the solo "Dream of Paradise" was beautifully rendered by Mrs. W. F. Graham, and the singing of "The Lord is My Shepherd" by the choir was much appreciated.

HARVEST THANKSGIVING SERVICES

Sunday last was a full day—"full of good" day at the Anglican Church. "It is a good thing to be thankful." The stirring, familiar harvest hymns, the special prayers, and the preaching, were all inspired by the same theme. The musical part of the services was particularly well led by a strong, well trained choir. At the evening service Sir John Stanger's Anthem, "Ye Shall Dwell in the Land" was rendered. The opening base solo, the promise of God of a dwelling place for His people in a land that once was desolate, was broken in up on by the response of the Psalmist, "His mercy endureth forever." The soprano solo carried the idea beyond things temporal to the blessedness of the Harvest Home that never ends. The vestments were impressive as sometimes it rose in praise, or quietly breathed out the Christian confidence.

The Rector preached morning and evening on the lessons of harvest. His sermons contained the following thoughts: "The Harvest festival is perhaps the oldest of any in the world and can be appreciated more widely than any other. It is no decoration of a church to decorate it with the fruits of the earth. God Himself commanded the Jews of old to bring baskets of fruit etc., to the priest in God's House and there to rejoice before Him. God Himself, as David teaches, rejoices in His works—the works of Nature. The harvest is a constant witness to the Being of God, and reveals that God is a God of power and love. Some of the readings in Drummond's 'Natural Laws in the Spiritual World' are lessons on the surface of every Harvest Home. There is no life but from antecedent life therefore no eternal life without contact with the Eternal. Like produces like—a lesson of grave importance in character building and especially for parents. The Christian must be as his Master.

In nature we sometimes see degeneration owing to neglect. So for Christians "How shall we escape if we neglect so great salvation." On the other hand we may buy today degenerated seed. So in Christian living we must, by God's grace, become better than we are. The seed sown and buried gives life to other seeds; so the life of all lives, laid down brings life to the world. There was a special service for children, so that they too might have an opportunity to join in the festival. A short address was given by the Rector emphasizing the importance of thankfulness, even of the kind that makes us say grace before meals. He told the children that, in his estimation, Thanksgiving Day was one of the best signs in the Dominion of Canada.
